BALCO launches 'Swachhta Hi Seva' campaign

■ Our Correspondent

KORBA, Oct 10

VEDANTA Group company Bharat Aluminium Company Limited (BALCO) organised various programmes in the community to commemorate Swachhta Diwas. The initiatives aimed to promote cleanliness and environmental responsibility among community members.

Under the Swachhta Abhiyan, BALCO sensitised approximately 2800 community members. Aligning with the government's 'Swachhta Hi Seva 2024' mission, the company conducted training sessions on waste management and source segregation for community-based organisations.

Over 90 members and grassroots workers participated in the training. Additionally, BALCO's environment team organized swachhta vartas (cleanliness discussions) in the community, sensitizing Self-Help Group (SHG) women on best environmental practices. To further promote awareness, local artisans and trained youth leaders performed puppet shows and street plays on the Swachh Bharat theme, emphasizing cleanliness' importance and encouraging community participation.

In collaboration with the Municipal Corporation, BALCO launched a mega cleanliness drive, where over 200 employee volunteers and community members cleaned public parks. The initiative concluded with a swachhta pledge and community unity demonstration.

The sessions, attended by 1042 students, focused on community cleanliness, personal hygiene, and the 3Rs: Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle. Students participated by creating waste-to-wealth models and posters. Students and teachers took the swachhta pledge.
