As India celebrates #11YearsOfMakeInIndia, my heartiest congratulations to PM @narendramodi ji for his outstanding work on bringing back the focus on swadeshi and self-reliance. We really have come a long way.

When I began my manufacturing journey, one question would not leave me: why import what we can produce here?

People said, "Why not buy from outside?" And I would ask back, "Why not make here?"

Being a geologist by practice, I always knew this land had what it takes to make everything from a pin to a plane.

Things progressed. I met the right set of people, procured the relevant technology, and we had BALCO, HZL, Sesa Goa and Cairn... all these Vedanta companies were ready to write India's Aatmanirbhar story in years to come.

Today we are the sole producers of zinc, lead, and silver. We produce more than half of India's aluminium and almost a quarter of India's crude oil. We make in India and sell to the world.

Why this matters is simple: making at home builds skills, creates jobs, grows the economy and strengthens India's geopolitical standing.

On this anniversary of @MakeInIndia, let us promise to build local, buy local, promote local and keep making here in India.

What's your Make In India story? Do share in the comments.

Navratri celebrations at BALCO brought together over 800 employees and their families for an evening of festivities. The township moved in sync to the beats of Garba, and the dance circles filled the floor with energy. Adding to the excitement were live tattoo booths and a fortune-telling parrot, adding a special flavour to the evening.
