Group Captain Shubhanshu Shukla becomes the second Indian to go to space!

Reading this news my mind went back to that day 41 years ago when the first Indian travelled to space. It was such an exciting, proud moment for us, still a young nation. We are all familiar with Wing Commander Rakesh Sharma's reply when asked how India looks from space - 'Saare Jahaan se Achha'. I can't describe the feeling of hearing it on radio.

India has traveled a long distance in these four decades. Our economy is in the world's top 5. Our space programme is also in the top 5.

Ultimately, it is advances in science and technology which drives prosperity of nations and well being of humanity.

India's quest in space isn't to conquer it. It is to explore and learn to bring benefits to our own planet and people.

I wish Shubhanshu and the team from ISRO behind him the very best in this exciting journey.

विनीत - उत्कल भारती सेवा समिति बालको

BALCO celebrated International Pride Month with the community, where young minds of Bal Sadan School expressed their creativity and support for the LGBTQ+ community through a slogan-writing and poster-making competition. With the active participation of over 120 students, the event was centered on the theme 'Creating a Trans-Inclusive Environment for a Developing Society,' brought to life a vision of inclusion and diversity through powerful strokes of art and words. These budding change makers reflected the spirit of acceptance, unity, and the belief that everyone belongs here.

It's always special to see the youth march in unity!

But did you know the story behind the Pride Parade and how it began?

It started in 1969 as a protest against years of discrimination. More than a celebration, it's an expression that says, we're here, we're proud, and we all belong here.
