BALCO Commissions Advanced
Coal Auger Sampling System
for Safer & Smarter Operations

CHAIRMAN CORNER

Anil Agarwal @AnilAgarwal_Ved · 2h

Dear young founders, here's something no one warns you about...

The journey you've chosen? It gets lonely.

The early years feel like living in a pressure cooker.

Every day, you make decisions that could move your dream forward or take it a step back.

It feels like shouting into the void - like building in the dark...

Kehne ko saath apne ek duniya chalti hai, but the truth is, most people around you will not get it.

Not because they don't care, but because they've never had to believe in something invisible.

Mount Everest ki chadhai pe bheed nahi hoti... the higher you climb, the fewer people you see.

But that doesn't mean you're lost. It just means you're on a rare path.

So, if you're in that phase - keep going.

And on the loneliest nights, find something that reminds you of home. For me, it was maaji ki shawl in a cold London flat.

Just remember:
Safar bhale hi akela ho, raasta apna hona chahiye...

Anil Agarwal
Chairman, Vedanta Limited

BALCO inaugurates an Auger Sampling System, marking a major leap in modernizing its coal sampling infrastructure. The new system is a significant step, focusing on automation, digitalization, and operational excellence. Designed to reduce human intervention in high-risk zones, it enhances safety by minimizing exposure and ensuring accurate, and efficient sampling. This initiative reinforces BALCO's commitment towards smarter and digital-first operations.
